Dear friends,

Every child has a right to a childhood that involves love, care, health, education, protection and opportunities to allow them to grow into their full stature as human beings. In India, the constitution, the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015, the Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Act or Right to Education Act (RTE) 2009, the Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Act (POCSO Act) 2012, the Child Labour (Prohibition and Regulation) Amendment Act, 2016 and a number of instruments provide safeguards to the youngest citizens and provide them with opportunities to grow into healthy and responsible adults. But unfortunately, millions of children lose their childhood due to poverty, malnutrition, poor health, child labour, inaccessible education and exploitation.

ICID is committed to the protection and integral development of these children in difficult situations, in line with its vision and mission. The foremost task of the organization is to protect the children from exploitative situations and promote their basic rights in relation to child survival, protection, development and participation that are enshrined in the Convention on the Rights of Children 1989. It commits itself to nurture healthy development of children and young people who do not have adequate care and protection. It also works to build the skills and resilience of the children in challenging situations by giving them access to equitable education, health care and other support services. In order to strengthen these efforts, ICID has also initiated a number of women empowerment programs because women, as mothers, play an integral role in the protection and development of children.

I am very happy to inform that during this year, the organization reached out to over 13,000 people including children, youth, women and other disadvantaged communities through various programs such as Yuvajyothi, CHILDLINE, Manini 2, Nirmaljyothi, Deepshikha, Yuva Sampad, Life skill education, Summer camps, Bal mela, Medical camps, Educational sponsorships and others.

ICID acknowledges with gratitude the support of all the project partners, donors, volunteers and well wishers. The dedicated and persistent effort of the team is commendable. The animated participation of the beneficiaries in the various programs has led to their overall success.

The core areas of work of the Organization

Child Protection: The organization rescues children from exploitative, abusive and other disadvantaged situations such as train stations, streets, pavement dwelling, work places and neglect. They provide a protective environment where a child finds a safe, dignified and friendly atmosphere including rehabilitation into their families. This is done through various programs such as street outreach, formation of children's groups, organizing child right awareness and advocacy programs, CHILDLINE – 24x7 emergency free phone helpline and outreach service for children in distress and Yuvajyothi Children's Home where children are given a familial environment.

Education: A number of programs are implemented in order to provide education such as kindergarten, formal and non formal education for the children of Yuvajyothi Children's Home, tuitions in community based centres, life skill education in schools and centres, summer camps for children in slum communities, educational sponsorship for needy children and youth, library services in slum communities, computer literacy, employability skill training and a resource centre for social work students and volunteers.

Health: The organisation works to promote good health in all project areas through programs such as health and hygiene awareness programs, primary health services, medical referrals and support for children, health camps and adolescent health assistance.

Women empowerment: Regular trainings and education in areas such as social and legal protection for women, home management and gender equality are held. Formation and facilitation of self help groups and young women's groups were organized throughout the year for additional support.

Livelihood: Livelihood training on tailoring for women and vocational training for youth in collaboration with other institutions are undertaken throughout the year. The women were taught the necessary skills for livelihood in the trade while the youth were supported for job placements. Entrepreneurship was promoted among disadvantaged women through interest free loans. Disadvantaged women from rural areas were provided with technical and financial support to start goat rearing as a source of nutrition and income.

Case Studies:

1. Bhavesh (name changed), aged 12 years, hailed from the Balaghat District. The economic condition of his family was poor. His parents earned their livelihood from daily wage. But they were finding it difficult to meet their daily basic needs. Due to poverty and lack of interest in schooling, the child dropped out of school. His parents requested their neighbour, also a daily worker in Nagpur city, to take the boy along with him to Nagpur. The boy was brought and was employed in a restaurant. He worked for 10 hours a day but received insufficient food and care. The child was rescued from the restaurant with the assistance of the crime branch and labour department. The boy was placed in a Government children’s home with the order of the Child Welfare Committee (CWC). FIR was filed against the owner of the restaurant in the local police station. The parents of the child were produced before the CWC who gave an undertaking that the child would not be sent for work and that proper care would be taken. The child was handed over to the parents by the CWC.
2. The information about a child marriage was received by the CHILDLINE team during the outreach. It was informed that a young girl, aged 14, fell in love with a 21 year old man, left her maternal house and began living with him in his house. She was unwilling to return to her maternal family. The man’s family was in a hurry to get them married and succeeded. A CHILDLINE volunteer informed CHILDLINE as well as the local police. The man was arrested and a FIR was filed against him in the local police station. The girl continued living in the same house of the man. The CL team in collaboration with the District Child Protection Unit rescued the girl and placed her in a rehabilitation home. Later, she was produced before Child Welfare Committee. She was handed over to her parents after they submitted a bond that the child will be kept away from the man until she attains 18 years of age. The CL team counselled the girl for her education and better future. Her parents sent her to her older sister’s house in another district for education.

Nirmaljyothi – Breaking the chain of beggary and rag picking

Nirmaljyothi provided an opportunity for breaking the chain of beggary through education for children and skill building and sustainable livelihood opportunities for youth and women who had been engaged in beggary and rag picking previously.

Activities and Achievements

- Visits were made to 144 families - issues of school dropout, rag picking and hygiene were discussed with parents
- Thirty five children, aged 3 to 6, were part of the crèche program aimed at learning, physical wellbeing, confidence building, increasing curiosity and creativity in the children
- Nine parent–teacher meetings were organized, with emphasis on irregular schooling of the children, health and hygiene, medical care, children dropping out of school, and children accompanying the parents/adults for begging.
- Three life skill education programs were organized with the participation of 50 children – this program focused on healthy living, peer pressure and other aspects of young life.
- Sixty seven women and girls have completed tailoring training successfully. Thirty one of them are involved in work from home or in the boutiques and earn about INR3000/- to INR4500/- a month.
- Celebrated Ambedkar Jayanti, Teacher’s Day and Environment day at the centre.
- Independence Day and Republic Day were celebrated on the 15th of August and 26th of January. Over eighty community members and children participated in both programs
- About 200 community members benefited from a medical camp program organized at the centre. Seventy four senior citizens were given spectacles to help with their low vision.
- Sensitization program on the importance of education was conducted with the participation of 70 community members and children at Gondmohalla in the month of September.
- All the children below 6 years of the age from Mangarodi and Wadar Moholla were enrolled in the ICDS centre.
- Twelve children were admitted to the Government school.
- Eight children who had previously dropped out of school were reintegrated into main stream schooling.

Case Studies

1. Mangal Jagan Shende, aged 16 and a school dropout, is the first child from his community to complete class X. His mother earned livelihood from rag picking and his father and older brothers were daily wage labourers but were alcoholics. Being economically poor and lacking motivation to pursue his studies, he dropped out of the school. The ICID team, through regular community visits, motivated him to rejoin the school. The school administration and the teachers were sensitized. He was readmitted to school and was supported with educational material and regular motivation. Mangal cleared the class X board exams in the first attempt and now wants to continue further studies.
2. Nilofer Sheik, aged 21, is proud to support her family with her earnings. She earns about INR7500/- a month by working in a boutique as a tailor and also by taking individual orders. She lives with her mother and a brother. Previously, the family depended solely on her fathers’ earnings from collection and sale of waste material. Unfortunately, her father passed away due to cancer. The family was reeling under heavy burden of debt borrowed for the treatment of her father. The ICID team motivated Nilofer to join tailoring classes in the Nirmaljyothi Centre. After completion of the course, she was supported with a tailoring machine from the Seed Fund of the organization. The ICID team assisted her in getting a job at a nearby boutique where she is being paid INR4500/- a month. She earns another INR 3000/- a month by working from home with individual orders. She has repaid substantial part of the loans and supports her family and her brother's education.

Manini 2 - for increased economic independence among rural women through sustainable livelihood opportunities

The Manini program provides women from economically disadvantaged backgrounds with the opportunity to create sustainable livelihoods. The women from the rural communities were engaged in activities that promote self-sustainability. The components of this program include motivational and sensitization meetings, women's groups, capacity building trainings and livelihood through goat rearing.

Activities and achievements

- Under the supervision of the PSC in Pettichua village, 8 women were selected for the goat rearing activity. 16 full grown female goats were purchased and handed over to the identified beneficiaries with conditions laid down by the PSC in April.
- Sixteen young goats were distributed to the needy women as per the project policy during the reporting period.
- Information on deworming livestock was organized at Bothali village in the month of May 2016 with the participation of about 80 villagers from Bothali. Dr. Vinod Thakur of Nagpur focused in his lecture on commonly observed diseases in goats during the rainy season.
- Two goat vaccination camps were organized as many of the animals in the project villages were prone to Foot and Mouth Disease. In the first camp organized in the month of May, 315 goats were vaccinated with the support of Dr. Suresh Neware and his assistant. The families were also provided with guidance for taking proper care of the animals. The Second vaccination camp was organized in the month of June 2016 at Bothali and Petichua villages with the support of Dr. Vinod Thakur from Nagpur and Mr. Maroti Narad from the local veterinary department. Approximately 400 goats and 150 other livestock such as cows and bulls were vaccinated. On this occasion, Dr. Vinod Thakur also informed the communities about various government schemes for livestock available for rural areas.
- On Environment Day, saplings of tamarind, Sheesham (rosewood) and Chichbilai (used for fodder) were distributed to the women in Petichuva in the month of June 2016.
- On the 3rd July, on the occasion of 'Jagatik Vasundhara Din', a tree plantation drive was conducted in the project area. More than 150 plants of fruits trees were planted. Over 80 people, including village leaders, actively participated in the program.
- Project evaluation was conducted on the 12th July by the funding agency representatives namely, Mrs. Rita Shepherd and Mr. Robert Shepherd. A total of sixty women participated in the evaluation.
- A total of eight meetings were conducted for project beneficiaries during the reporting period. Various issues regarding project implementation such as livestock care, their marketing, and participation in the project activities were discussed. As well as information on Right to Information, Women's Right, Health care etc were discussed.

- Three meetings were held with the project steering committee where the members discussed the issues and benefits in empowering the women in the projects.
- A survey was conducted and identified two nearby villages for further project implementation.
- The project was evaluated on the 20th of November by Mr Manish Mudliar, Director of SAATHI with the participation of all the stakeholders
